DANIEL ROMUALDEZ ARCHITECTS

The Jonas upholstery selected by Daniel Romualdez for the Mercer Street Loft—including slipcovered pieces in the living room, library, and master bedroom—serves as a “counterpoint to the strict lines of the interior architecture,” creating “a calm and inviting oasis of comfort,” states the designer. The soft lines of Jonas’s Melhado sofas contrast agreeably with the room’s spare geometry. In the same space, two Napoleon III tufted club chairs—slipcovered and paired with an ottoman—are set in conversation with Claudia Aronow’s Untitled, which sits atop the fire-place mantel.
